DO YOUR POLICYHOLDERS HAVE A DISASTER PLAN?

You're already helping protect policyholders after a disaster — but what about before?

Having a clear disaster plan in place is crucial to keeping your clients safe and calm in any situation. Start talking to your policyholders about potential disasters in their area and outline how they should prepare and react to an emergency.

DISASTER PLAN ESSENTIALS:

Establish shelters and meeting places

Shelters should be away from windows and exposure to the outside. In case of evacuation, identify exits and a safe meeting spot nearby — such as a neighbor's yard.

Collect essential information

Make a list of emergency contacts, give your family access and keep records of important medical, insurance, and identification information in your shelter.

Create an emergency kit

Clearly mark a large plastic storage container as the family emergency kit. Include items such as: non-perishable food, water, blankets, flashlights and batteries, medications, etc.
